EDITOR'S NOTEBOOK

Dear Archie Readers,

Archie Comics receives many letters addressed to our artists and writers. All of this mail is forwarded to them. While they would like to answer every letter, it's not always possible. Two artists who receive quite a bit of mail are DAN DeCARLO and STAN GOLDBERG. Most of their fans would like to know how they became interested in art and eventually started drawing comics.

This gave me an idea. I could write short biographies about them in my column. Not only would the fans who wrote learn about their favorite artist or writer, but so would everyone else. Anyway, here goes. Short biography number one....

DAN DeCARLO may not be as widely known as many of the popular super hero artists, but after drawing over 75,000 pages during his career, he certainly has his fans.

When Dan graduated from High School, he attended the Art Students League in New York City. He went to art school for three years before he was drafted into the Army during World War II. In the Army, Dan was a "draftsman" in the Signal Corps attached to the 8th Fighter Command. There, he was able to continue to draw and produced a cartoon newspaper. Some of his cartoons were painted on the sides of airplanes.

After the war, Dan worked with his father in the landscaping business, sold some cartoons and helped out on various newspaper strips through King Features. He heard there were openings for artists at Marvel Comics. Dan started working on a book called "Jeannie." He also drew "Millie the Model" and other romance books.

In the mid 1950s, Dan had an opportunity to work at Archie Comics. The rest is history. Dan developed into Archie's premier artist. He is best known for his Betty & Veronica books and covers. Most recently, Dan has been working with new, aspiring Archie artists. Hopefully, some of his unsurpassed talent will be passed on to them.

Dan lives in Scarsdale, New York with his beautiful wife Josette, who is also his fashion consultant.

DREAMS

Everyone dreams at least once a night. Some psychologists believe dreams are meaningless wanderings of the mind. Others believe that dreams not only predict the future but give important information about your life. Each dream lasts about ten to fifteen minutes. You dream during the Rapid Eye Movement (REM) phase of sleep, the deepest phase. You dream in color and can experience light, sound, temperature, touch, movement, taste and smell.
